STATE REGULATION OF OIL IN OKLAHOMA

Not only the oil trade of the United States, but the whole question of state regulation of industries of a quasi-public character is likely to be seriously affected by the outcome of Oklahoma's attempt to conserve public interest by the exercise of authority over the production and price of petroleum drawn from its wells. A law recently enacted in the state named gives to a body known as the corporation commission, established for interposing in the popular behalf in case the corporations should forget the source of their privileges, power to investigate the price of crude and refined oil, the cost of production, and so on. Moreover, it is granted authority to fix the price of crude oil at the well. Furthermore, it may fix at its discretion the quantity of oil produced in the fields. The intention of the law is to prevent monopoly and monopolistic rate fixing, on the one side, and the exhaustion of a great natural resource, by waste on the other. It was decided by the corporation commission, when the law became operative, not to initiate any move against the oil producers, but, rather, to await complaints from oil producers themselves. These, it was seen, might be depended on to report any irregularity on the part of competitors. That the policy was wise is apparent from the character as well as the number of complaints coming in. Perhaps the most important of these are directed against operations in the Cushing and Healdton fields, where it is alleged in the complaints, oil is being produced in a manner that threatens to bring disaster to holders of adjacent leases, many of whom are independent and able to produce only a small amount of oil, compared with that drawn by the trust concerns. It is represented in the complaints that the small oil man cannot command the attention that the pipe line operators are ready to accord the heavier producer; therefore the latter gets his oil out in larger quantities than the small man and obtains from the field an unjust portion. The output of the Cushing and Healdton wells is of immense quantity, and any limitation of it or any rise or fall in the price of the production would be felt, it is claimed, by the oil trade everywhere. The history of petroleum production is so familiar to the people of the United States that they will be quick to see how easily the experience of the small oil men of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and other states might be repeated in Oklahoma were it not for the precautions against monopoly taken by that state. In Oklahoma, as readily as in the older oil producing states, the small man could be driven from the field. The pipe line has proved to be a handy weapon for monopoly in the past the complaints filed with the Oklahoma corporation commission show that it is being resorted to in the present. Manifestly, the first step to be taken in Oklahoma under the new law is to conserve the oil supply of the state. The big concerns are not always content, it is alleged, with drawing more than their share; when they have drawn all they need they continue to draw. It is claimed, so that the small man cannot get his share. If production shall be regulated by the Oklahoma corporation commission so that equitable treatment, and nothing more, is assured all producers, big and little, and so that the natural wealth of the state shall not be frittered away by either the deliberate waste or undue cheapening of the product, the price should regulate itself. If it does not, the experience will only add more weight to the argument in favor of the state or the nation taking over completely the administration of natural resources.—Christian Science Monitor.

Veritable. The clear advertised for an organist the other day. Among the replies he received was the following: "Dear Sir, I notice that you have a vacancy for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman. Having been both for several years, I beg to apply for the position."

To the Housewife. Madam, if your husband is like most men, he expects you to look after the health of yourself and children. Coughs and colds are the most common of the minor ailments and are most likely to lead to serious diseases. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when it has a cold. If you will inquire into the merits of the various remedies that are recommended for coughs and colds, you will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy stands high in the estimation of people who use it. It is prompt and effectual, pleasant and safe to take, which are qualities especially to be desired when a medicine is intended for children. For sale by all dealers.

Your Child's Cough is a Call for Help. Don't put off treating your child's cough. It not only saps their strength but often leads to more serious ailments. Why risk? You don't have to. Dr. King's New Discovery is just the remedy your child needs. It is made with soothing, healing and anti-septic balsams. Will quickly check the cold and soothe your child's cough away. No odds how bad the cough or how long standing, Dr. King's New Discovery will stop it. It's guaranteed. Just get a bottle from your drugist and try it.

FEDERAL JURY GIVES VERDICT OF GUILTY

FOR BOB BRAZIER AND SAM ELLIOTT WHO WERE CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY TO INTRODUCE LIQUOR.

The Fort Worth Record says: A verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment" was returned in the United States district court Saturday afternoon against Bob Brazier and Sam Elliott. The indictment contained two counts, one charging conspiracy to introduce liquor into the Indian country of Oklahoma and the other charging the retailing of liquor without license or payment of government tax. Attorneys for the defendants said after the verdict was returned that the case will be appealed.

Evidence introduced in the trial showed that the whiskey alleged to have been transported by Brazier and Elliott, was taken to Oklahoma both by train and by automobile. Statements made by Dan Blackburn, a policeman at Ardmore, and by United States Deputy Marshal Dick Higgins were to the effect that the whiskey transported in kegs, was dropped from a train at Overbrook, Okla. One keg, they testified came from the front of the train and the other was dropped from the rear. They testified that after the train pulled out, Brazier was found on the other side of the track. They said he did not walk toward the kegs. Higgins broke open one of the kegs and found it contained whiskey.

Evidence in regard to the shipment made by automobile was to the effect that an auto loaded with a number of sacks left the rear of the Rosen Bar, in Fort Worth, Sept. 12, last. S. P. Hart of Plano, who drove the car, testified that it made a trip to the Red River by way of Krum and Gainesville. When the river was reached, the sacks were loaded in a skiff and taken up the river by Elliott. He would not swear that Elliott was the man who hired him to make the trip to the river. Efforts to obtain a direct statement to the effect that the sacks contained whiskey, were unavailing.

Further evidence told of an automobile, driven from Ardmore, arriving to meet the ferryboat carrying the sacks that had been loaded on it from the skiff. The sacks were said to have been placed in a space under a removable floor in the bottom of the ferryboat. During his argument before the jury, District Attorney Wilson referred to a man who met the shipment of loaded sacks at the ferry. He said if he had been put on the stand, he could have told what was in the sacks. He called this man Chicken Fulton and said he had been in Fort Worth the early part of the week, but had disappeared. Mr. Wilson said Fulton would have been put on the stand had he not violated the order of the court. While the Brazier-Elliott jury was out, charges on the bond of S. L. Wagley charged with violation of the Mann act, were sworn before Judge Meek. At the instance of Wagley's lawyers his case was postponed from Monday until Wednesday of next week.

WANDERER OF SEAS NOW FINDS HAVEN

HEBREW REFUSED ENTRANCE TO UNITED STATES OR BRAZIL, BEING DECLARED INSANE — MEMBER K. of P.

New York, March 28.—Nathan Cohen, who, as an insane person, traveled more than 12,000 miles on a $45 steamship ticket because neither this country from which he was deported, nor Brazil, from which he emigrated would admit him, has ended his travels. He was to have started back to Brazil on his fourth round trip aboard the steamship Vasari today, but friends took him off the vessel five minutes before she sailed. They presented a stay to the order of deportation which was secured at Washington.

It was learned several days ago that a man named Nathan Cohen was a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge in Jacksonville, Fla. A representative of the lodge came here and found out that the Cohen detained aboard the Vasari was the same man. The Hebrew Splintering and Immigrant Aid society of America was communicated with and it was then learned that Cohen became insane after his entrance to this country as the result of a series of business troubles. This fact was communicated to the immigration officials at Washington and the stay was issued.

Cohen was taken to Ellis island from the steamer late today. He will be released upon a bond of $500 as soon as it can be arranged. The bond will be supplied jointly by the aid society and the fraternal order.
